ALL STAR CAST
No 3 " West of the Water Bucket"

Removing his orphanage to a farm to cut expenses, Jack takes his wards to a circus where he meets a faker, passing himself off as O'Day, bullying an undersized man. The phoney champ and Jack have words, but nothing comes of it until, later, the real O'Day accepts the barnstormer's challenge to mill with him in the circus ring. Despite a lame knee, injured in rescuing a couple of kids in a runaway farm wagon, Jack accepts the challenge of the fake champ and, after several amusing and exciting rounds, beats him, winning the purse offered by the circus.

Not knowing the inside facts on the case, and editor prints an extra containing the sensational account of Jack having been knocked out by an unknown country boy. Jack's manager rushes to the village in a plane to get the low-down, and gets his protege in wrong with the natives, by interrupting a dinner tendered O'Day by the Mayor for having knocked out the supposed Worlds Champ. The Mayor, disliking professional pugilists, leaves in disgust, taking with him his attractive daughter, for whom Jack has developed a great liking.
